

MAYOR WINS BOND ISSUE. LOSSES 8 WARD FIGHTS

CITY HALL SLIPS IN HOT ALDERMEN SCRAPS

NEW CABINET IS VIRTUALLY ALL SELECTED

Hoover and Denby in It, Is Forecast.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 22.—(By Associated Press.)—President Harding has reached a tentative decision on every place in his cabinet, and unless there are last minute changes, the official circle of the next administration will be composed of these men:

Charles Evans Hughes of New York, former governor, former justice of the Supreme court, and Republican nominee for the presidency in 1916, secretary of state.

Andrew W. Mellon of Pennsylvania, a banker and financier, member of a family reputed to be among the wealthiest in this country, secretary of the treasury.

John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, former United States senator, and in 1914 a candidate for the presidential nomination, secretary of war.

Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, who managed the pre-convention campaign resulting in Mr. Harding's nomination, attorney general.

Will H. Hays of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national committee, postmaster general.

Edwin Denby of Michigan, a former member of congress, who has served as an enlisted man in both the navy and marine corps, secretary of the navy.

Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, United States senator, secretary of the interior.

Henry Wallace of Iowa, editor of farm publications, secretary of agriculture.

Herbert Hoover of California, former food administrator and leader in relief movements for European refugees, secretary of commerce.

William J. Davis of Pennsylvania and Illinois, a former union steel worker and highest official in the Moose fraternity, secretary of labor.

If changes are made they are most likely to affect the appointments for justice, commerce, and labor, all of which are understood to have come to the point of decision within the last twenty-four hours.

In regard to none of these has there been an exchange of formal invitation of acceptance, but in every case the selection made by Mr. Harding are expected by his closest associates to stand.

Hoover Studies Decision.

Mr. Harding discussed the acceptance of a cabinet post with Herbert Hoover over the long distance telephone tonight. Mr. Hoover asked time to consider.

Assignment of the navy portfolio to Mr. Denby, who is a Detroit lawyer, was a surprise, although it was known he had been considered.

How since the early days of the campaign Mr. Hoover's name has been one of the storm centers of the cabinet, many Republicans urging his appointment as secretary of state, interior, commerce, or labor, and many opposing it because of his decided stand in favor of the league of nations.

Regarding the labor portfolio also there has been a flood of recommendations and counter recommendations.

It is understood that in the final cabinet ranks close to Mr. Davis, and would there be a change in that part of the state Mr. Duncan may go in.

Duncan "Second Choice."

One of the considerations that has been urged against Mr. Davis is that, although he lives at Mooseheart, Ill., national headquarters of the Moose fraternity, his principal business interests are in Pittsburgh, Pa., which is the home of Mr. Mellon. It is understood, however, that Mr. Harding would not be a mistake to pick two cabinet officials from one town.

Mr. Harding also let it be known that he expects to leave subordinate appointments within the executive department personnel.

Mr. John Dill Robertson, Chicago health commissioner, here today, said he had come on public health matters and disclaimed that he was here as a special emissary of the Thompson administration.

London and some of the other cabinet members had been down at Mooseheart, a few miles south of here, and had not been seen any of them.

Society Sees Wrestling at Charity Show

Chicago last night saw society introduced to the "squared ring." Women of the city's smart set bent forward to cheer bleeding and sweat smeared wrestlers. Livered chauffeurs pressed breathlessly about every door of the Coliseum, craning their necks to gaze over the heads of their society masters for a glimpse of the bouts.

Wrestling came into its own through the biggest charity program of the season. With the state law forbidding boxing, this was the nearest town could come to matching the Anne Morgan bouts of the Garden in New York.

Twelve thousand persons, including practically every sort in Chicago, from north shore debutantes to veteran followers of the ring, made up the crowd which packed the Coliseum to its limits. A total of $15,000 was cleared for the benefit of the city's poor children and both the sporting brotherhood and society chiefs announced their complete satisfaction in the unique plan for raising money.

The Winners.

As to the purely sporting side: JACK REYNOLDS of Chicago, welterweight champion, won over Spyros Vorres, challenger, of Cedar Rapids.

JOHNNY MEYERS, Chicago, middleweight champion of the world, was awarded a decision over Lou Talaber, Hungarian champion, after one hour and fifteen minutes.

Jim London, Greek light heavyweight, and John Pesek, Bohemian light heavyweight, went an hour and fifteen minutes to a draw.

Military Setting at Coliseum.

When limousines and street cars began unloading their thousands at 8 p. m. the Coliseum resembled a great military symposium. Veterans of the last world artillery band opened the program with overseas jazz, and former "buddies" of Capt. Marshall Field took command of the seating.

When Al Smith, idol of the wrestling fans, stepped forward at 8:15 to announce the first bout he faced the strangest audience in his long ring experience. Pressing about the ringside and filling every box were folks whose names grace the blue book. Next came bleachers filled with lesser lights. The real fans were banded to the ceiling in balcony seats.

"Ladies and gentlemen," shrieked Al—then he paused while Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Capt. and Mrs. Marshall Field and their party entered a ringside box. "And gentlemen," Al concluded after the applause, "in this corner, Mr. Jack Reynolds." The battle was on.

All Become Fans in Hurry.

It took about one minute of furious sparring to make the strangely mixed audience forget itself. In the first few minutes the gloves were split by two spirited athletes when their fair wearers approved strenuously of a clever hold or head lock.

"I think they're biting each other," cried one young debutante when Vorres arose from a particularly vicious fall with blood streaming from his nose.

"Nothing of the kind," declared her escort. "He simply got the head lock on him and nearly tore off his nose."

When the Meyers bout got under way the boxes were again full of cheering and applause. After an hour and fifteen minutes, when Referee Martin Delaney awarded the bout to Meyers, society "booed" the decision wildly.

"Oh, that was awful," shrieked a young matron, standing up in her box. "It should have been a draw. Besides, Talaber has a nice face!"

Promoters Are Happy.

Complete estimates were not available last night, but Frederic McLaughlin, chairman of the executive committee, said the show was a success.

COLBY MARKS LANGDON KILLING OFF JAPAN SLATE

Thinks Apologies Have Been Adequate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Colby made public tonight the action taken by the Japanese government to make amends for the unwarranted killing of Lieut. W. H. Langdon of the American navy by a Japanese sentry in Vladivostok a few weeks ago.

Japan has expressed formally "deep regret" at the occurrence, has removed the commanding general of Vladivostok and retired him from the active list of the army and has punished subordinate officers and the sentry with terms of confinement not exceeding thirty days.

While in navy quarters the address is deemed inadequate, Secretary Colby regards the action satisfactory and is disposed to close the incident with the exception of the discussion of reparations to the family of Lieut. Langdon, upon which he is insisting.

"The action of the Japanese authorities," said Mr. Colby, "has been prompt and sincere and it will undoubtedly be received with appreciation in this country."

Details of Report.

Mr. Colby's report continues:

"A most thorough and exhaustive examination was conducted by the court martial, resulting in the removal from the active list of the Japanese army of Maj. Gen. Nishihara, commanding the Japanese garrison at Vladivostok. The court held that Gen. Nishihara had been guilty of a misinterpretation of the barracks service regulations and had thus incurred primary responsibility. He has been deprived of the command of the garrison and of the rank of brigade commander."

"The barracks officer of the rank of major has been adjudged guilty of responsibility and sentenced to confinement for thirty days. The assistant barracks officer, a lieutenant, and the regimental commander have both been sentenced to a similar punishment for a period of twenty days; the company commander has been sentenced to a year's term."

Sentry Obedient Orders.

The commander in chief of the Japanese expeditionary force in Vladivostok had paid a visit to the U. S. S. Albany and expressed his regret. The sentry who fired the fatal shot has been held to be excused by the orders and action of his superiors, upon whom responsibility has been squarely placed and who are to be punished as above stated. The sentry, however, was found guilty of deception in his testimony as to the circumstances of the fatality and for this has been sentenced to confinement for thirty days.

In addition to the expressions of regret on the part of the commander in chief of the Japanese expeditionary force, the minister for foreign affairs, in communicating the action of the court martial, conveys to the American government "the expression of deep regret on the part of the Japanese government at the occurrence of this event" and expresses the hope that the government of the United States will fully appreciate the sincere regret in which the Japanese government has acted in dealing with this most unfortunate incident."

The 1919 Tientsin Incident.

It is disclosed that the Tientsin incident, which threatened to disturb the relations of Japan and the United States in 1919, was settled by a mutual exchange of expressions of regret. The correspondence concerning this affair continued until Dec. 7, 1920, when the Japanese ambassador tendered an expression of regret and the following day the secretary of state replied.

LONGWORTH BILL REPEALS TAX ON EXCESS PROFITS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Repeal of the excess profit, transportation, and soft drink taxes in the war revenue laws, is provided in a bill which Representative Nicholas Longworth, Ohio, ways and means committee member, will introduce tomorrow.

Mr. Longworth proposes several ways to make up for the losses in revenue which would amount to about $100,000,000 annually. He estimates a 10 percent tariff law will bring in about $200,000,000 from increased customs duties, and the remainder will be made up by a flat tax of 15 percent on the net income of corporations. The exemption of $2,000, now enjoyed by small corporations, will be repealed and the tax increased from 15 to 18 percent and applied to the income of all corporations.

Mr. Longworth plans also to reduce the limit of surplus from 75 to 40 percent. He believes that if this reduction is made rich men will not seek so many exempted investments.

Mrs. James Speyer Dies in New York; Ill Two Years

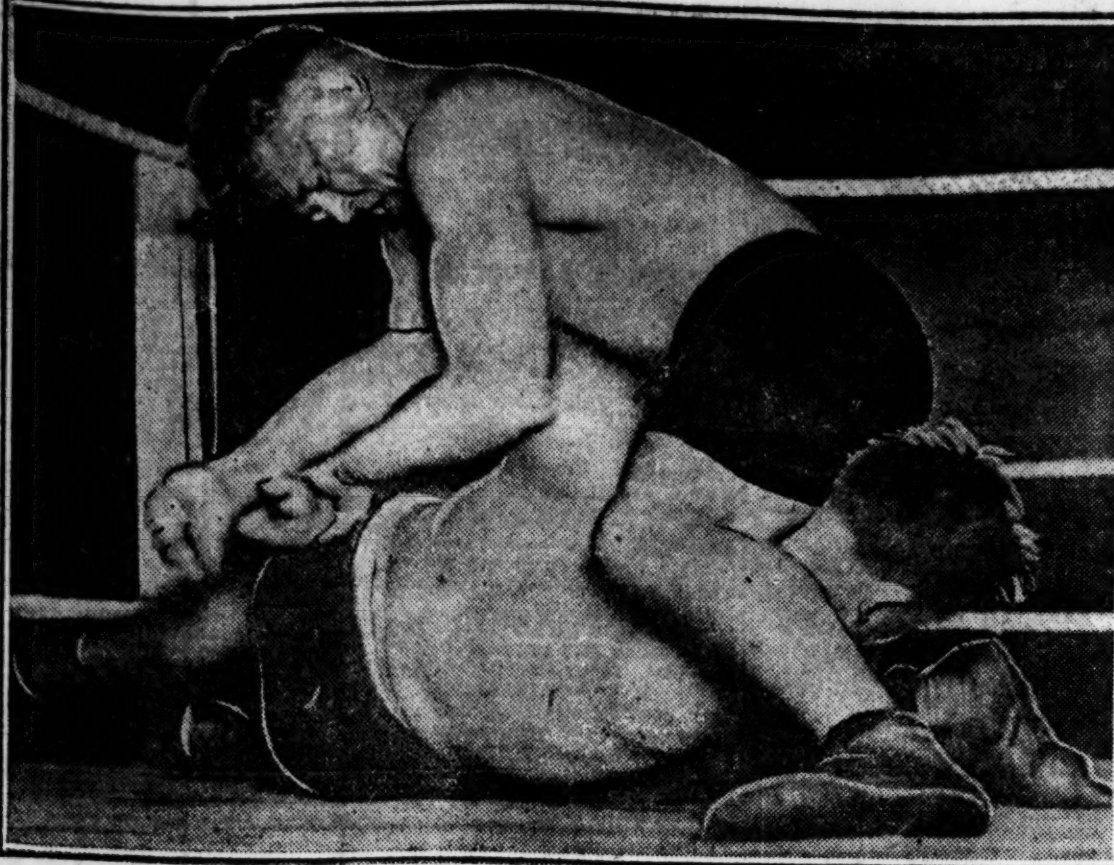

New York, Feb. 22.—Mrs. James Speyer, wife of the international banker and philanthropist, died this morning at her home, 1055 Fifth avenue, after a long illness. She suffered from general paresis. She suffered a general breakdown two years ago and had been at her town house ever since.

Mrs. Speyer was noted for her interest in bettering the conditions of children and animals. Eleven years ago she founded, with others, the New York Women's league for animals, of which she had been the president ever since. "I believe we have made good," Mrs. Field said. "Everybody tells me they had a good time, and the money is more than acceptable."

STORY OF BOUTS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The wrestling was featured by the contest between Johnny Meyers, midweight champion, and Challenger Lou Tallaber. Both gave a great exhibition of double wrist locking. Time and again each clamped on the deadly hold. After one hour and fifteen minutes Referee Martin Delaney awarded the decision to Meyers, who had been the aggressor throughout the contest. After seven minutes of pulling and tugging Tallaber slipped in trying for a leg hold. Quick as a flash Meyers pounced on him and circled his body with a scissor. Tallaber worked himself loose and went on the offensive. Meyers was down only a few seconds. He side rolled and both men went to their feet. For the next twenty minutes each tried in vain to clamp on the double wrist lock. At times it looked as if a fall was certain, but by great effort the man in danger managed to squirm loose.

At the end of one hour both men were on their feet. At one hour and six minutes Tallaber secured a vicious headlock and Meyers was in distress for the first time during the contest. But when both shoulders were less than an inch from the mat he broke the lock and regained his feet. The grip had its effect. Blood streamed from Johnny's nose as he locked holds with the challenger. The men tried hard for the remainder of the time limit, but both had spent their efforts and the decision was given to Meyers.

Pesek and London Draw.

John Pesek and Jim London, who met for the light heavyweight title, gave a great exhibition of strength in the final contest. After they had tugged and hauled for one hour and fifteen minutes Referee Delaney called the bout a draw.

The big fellows looked slow in comparison to Meyers and Tallaber. Often their moves were telegraphed before they started for a hold. Several times Pesek secured a double armlock, but London broke them with great effort. London's main weapons of attack were the head and toe lock. He secured each hold several times, but Pesek broke them without much effort. In the final contest of these bouts Pesek broke in with a great effort. London failed to apply the leverage properly whenever he secured a toe lock.

Both men displayed wonderful defensive skill. London's chief defense for the double arm lock was a knack of getting hold of Pesek's toes. The moment London grabbed one of his opponent's feet, Pesek loosed his lock to extricate himself. The decision met popular approval.

Reynolds Retains Title.

In the opening contest Jack Reynolds retained his welterweight title by defeating Spyros Vorres two of three falls. Reynolds took the first fall in 2:43 with a head scissor and bar arm. Vorres evened up matters by winning the second in 20:33 with a cradle hold. In the deciding fall Reynolds showed he was by far the superior by winning in 5:16 with an arm scissor.

In justice to Vorres it must be said he was outwitted at least ten pounds. It was a great show. The results showed that a finish match between Meyers and Tallaber or Pesek and London would draw a capacity crowd.

2 RICH COAL MEN KILLED; SLAYER BROTHER OF ONE

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—

George H. Beatty, 35 years old, of Belleville, Ill., and Otto Klingenfuss, 51, of Mascoutah, Ill., who were shot by Dr. James Beatty, brother of George Beatty, during a stockholders' meeting of a coal company in Mascoutah, Ill., this morning, died in Belleville hospital tonight.

Dr. Beatty is being held in the county jail at Belleville. He refused to make a statement.

The two slain men, Dr. Beatty, and three other Beatty brothers, Roland, John, and Neple, formed the Beatty Coal company. According to Roland Beatty, there has been friction among the brothers and Klingenfuss because several of them have attempted to draw coal without paying the regular price for it.

Dr. James Beatty, according to Roland's statement, hit the latter on the head with a stove poker and Roland ran from the room. Immediately thereafter, he says, he heard two shots fired and ran back to find his brother George and Klingenfuss on the floor wounded.

Klingenfuss and the Beatty brothers were wealthy. Both of the dead men were married, while Dr. Beatty is a widower.

Frank G. Logan was there with his sons, Howard, Spencer, and Waldo.

ALLIES WELCOME VIEWS OF U. S. ON MANDATE PACTS

Halt Decision to Await Note from Colby.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—Ambassador Wallace's notification to the council of the league of nations today that the state department at Washington desired to present the views of the United States before action was taken on mandates created great surprise in league circles.

The gradual withdrawal of American representatives from the council's commissions connected with peace activities had tended to confirm the opinion that the outgoing administration would leave all such initiative to the new government.

The text of Secretary Colby's note will not be generally known until tomorrow, but his unexpected intervention is received in French circles as well as in others with evident satisfaction as showing that the new world still maintains contact and is still interested in the old world's problems.

Note Halts League Action.
Notification of the sending of the note came when "mandates" was the first question before the council, which spent nearly the entire day in discussing the reply to the American ambassador's letter and exchanging views upon mandates which the American observations are not likely to touch. The council's reply to Ambassador Wallace, signed by Dr. de Cunha, president of the council, expresses the lively interest with which the council learned that a communication from the state department was on its way, and says that in response to his request the council will postpone all final decisions relative to the from mandates now under discussion until receipt of the communication.

Yap's Fate Settled.
The note points out that the mandates on the council's agenda are of type "A," Asia Minor, and "B," Central Africa. It recalls that mandates of type "C," the Pacific Islands and German West Africa, were decided upon two months ago and published. The mandates are as follows:

Type "A"—Great Britain mandatory over Mesopotamia and Palestine; France over Syria and Lebanon.

Type "B"—Belgium mandatory over German East Africa; France and Great Britain over Togoland and Kamerun; Great Britain over German Southwest Africa.

Among the type "C" allocations in Japan's mandatory over North Pacific islands, including Yap, Australia over New Guinea; New Zealand over Samoa; Great Britain over Nauru; Union of South Africa over German Southwest Africa.

The council decided that the mandate commission shall be composed of four mandatory powers—Great Britain, France, Belgium, and Japan—with the other members chosen from among representatives of Italy, Portugal, Holland, Sweden, and perhaps the United States. The question of an American representative is still under discussion, there being differences of opinion as to the propriety of selecting an American under the present circumstances. Ordinarily, it is declared, there would have been no objection. Sweden's representative will be a woman.

COLBY ASKS "EQUAL RIGHTS."
Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—Equal opportunities for the citizens of all of the allied and associated powers, whether members of the league of nations or not, in former enemy territories to be administered by the allied governments under mandates, is insisted upon in a note dispatched by the state department to the council of the league, now in session at Paris.

The note went forward last night to Ambassador Wallace, who is to present it to the council tomorrow. Its text was withheld, but state department officials described it today as being virtually identical with the one on the same subject sent to the British government last November by Secretary Colby.

That note was couched in exceedingly firm language. In it Mr. Colby took issue with the British position that mandate agreements and treaties were to be considered only by states members of the league, and declared that the United States as a contributor to the common victory in the world war could not consider "any of the associated powers, the smallest less than itself, debarred from participation in the rights and privileges secured under the mandates provided in the treaties of peace."

Initiation of this, the first action to be taken by the United States to the council of the league of nations, was at the suggestion of one of the allied powers, understood to have been Great Britain.

The principal point at issue between the United States and Great Britain is the so-called San Remo agreement between Great Britain and France for the development of oil resources in the mandate territories in the near east.

Each of the undersigned will recommend to the appropriate governmental agency of his government that, upon the delivery to the reparation commission of such bonds his government accept an amount thereof corresponding to the sums which Belgium has borrowed from his government.

What They Will Urge.
"Each of the undersigned will recommend to the appropriate governmental agency of his government that, upon the delivery to the reparation commission of such bonds his government accept an amount thereof corresponding to the sums which Belgium has borrowed from his government."

Bonds Not Ready Yet.
The president noted that the "reparations commission has not as yet finally determined the details of the issuance of the necessary bonds by the German government."

The approaching end of his term of office was also his reason for calling attention now, he said, "hoping that suitable action may be taken at the appropriate time."

Three youths robbed a co-operative store at 723 West One Hundred and Seventh street of $40 yesterday. The manager, S. A. Babson, and a clerk were tied and thrown into a back room.

Belgiums Busy Paying.
The interest on the advances has been paid up to April 15, 1919, the interest due from May 15, 1919, to that date having been paid out of treasury loans for which the United States holds Belgian obligations, which, however, were made after Nov. 11, 1918, the date of the armistice.

"The latter advance would not come within the terms of the agreement above mentioned. If, therefore, the United States accepts payment of Belgian obligations given before the armistice, by receiving a corresponding amount of German obligations, it would seem that it should receive German obligations amounting to $171,780,000 with interest from April 15, 1919.

HUSBAND SEEKS WIFE WHO BURNED SAVINGS THEN LEFT HIS HOME

Mrs. Francis Schiroky, 44 years old, has disappeared from her home, 2033 Webster avenue.

Her husband, Alexander Schiroky, has asked THE TRIBUNE for aid in searching for her.

Last week, he said, Mrs. Schiroky threw $150, the family savings, into the furnace and has otherwise acted strangely recently.

When last seen she was wearing house slippers, a dark dress, black plush coat with gray fur collar, and a broad brimmed sailor hat.

CONGRESS FEARS GERMAN BONDS FROM BELGIANS

Foresees Plan to Drag the U. S. Into Treaty.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—President Wilson's proposal that the United States accept German indemnity bonds in payment of Belgium's $171,000,000 debt is doomed to rejection by congress if the privately expressed views of senate leaders correctly forecast the action.

The president's letter on the subject was read to both houses at today's session. None could be found to defend it.

"Irreconcilables" looked upon the suggestion as another roundabout scheme to get the United States entangled in the Versailles pact.

Feel Sentimental Claims.
The "irreconcilables" pointed out they felt sentimental pressure for aiding Belgium in any way in return for its gallant resistance but feared to set a dangerous precedent.

It is said vetted threats are beginning to come over the cables from Paris that the United States cannot expect payment of the allied indebtedness, amounting to $10,000,000,000, unless it helps execute the peace treaty.

The letter to M. Hymans, the Belgian minister of foreign affairs, as read to congress said:

"The reparation clauses of the draft treaty of peace with Germany obligate Germany to make reimbursement of all sums which Belgium has borrowed from the allied and associated governments up to Nov. 11, 1918, on account of the violation by Germany of the treaty of 1839. As evidence of such an obligation, Germany is to make a special issue of bonds, to be delivered to the reparations commission."

What They Will Urge.
"Each of the undersigned will recommend to the appropriate governmental agency of his government that, upon the delivery to the reparation commission of such bonds his government accept an amount thereof corresponding to the sums which Belgium has borrowed from his government."

Bonds Not Ready Yet.
The president noted that the "reparations commission has not as yet finally determined the details of the issuance of the necessary bonds by the German government."

The approaching end of his term of office was also his reason for calling attention now, he said, "hoping that suitable action may be taken at the appropriate time."

Appeal by Wilson.
"For various reasons," the president's message of transmission said, "the undertaking defined in the above letter was not embodied in the treaty. Belgium's obligations to the United States for advances made up to the date of the armistice amounted to approximately $171,000,000, and to England and France they amounted, I am informed, to about $164,700,000.

"In view of the special circumstances in which Belgium became involved in the war and the attitude of this country toward Belgium, it was felt that the United States might well agree to make the same agreement respecting pre-armistice loans to Belgium as England and France offered to do."

Advances made by the treasury to the Belgian government from the beginning of the war to the armistice amounted to $171,780,000. This principal sum, however, includes advances of $499,400 made to enable the Belgians to pay the interest due Nov. 15, 1917, and $1,571,468.42, to enable the payment of interest due May 15, 1918.

CURB ALIEN RUSH, BAR ORIENTALS, PLEA BY WOOD

Washington Speech Wins
Cheers for General.

Chicago yesterday paid tribute to the memory of George Washington.

Civic organizations, clubs, unions, communities, and individuals joined in making the day memorable.

At the Hamilton club hundreds of members and their friends heard Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood lay down a program of Americanism that called out cheers and applause.

Gen. Wood declared for a definite foreign commercial policy, the stemming of the tide of immigration, the establishment of universal military training on a moderate scale, better care for disabled veterans of the world war, more pay for teachers and professors in colleges, and the revival of the American merchant marine.

Waves of Alien Hordes.

"In the name of all decency," he said, "don't allow the indiscriminate flooding of immigration. If you do you are building a bonfire that will break out sooner or later."

"My policy would be not to allow any one to come into the country with whom we would not let our children intermarry. This excludes the orientals among others. We are not against them, but we should tell them that we know we can never assimilate them and so do not wish them."

He favored allowing the families of men already American citizens to come into the country.

He declared disarmament, which he favored, would never be attained until international friendship and trust had been recognized. He advocated a general disarmament of all nations.

"We never have fought a first class war since the world began," he said. "Our army and navy are the most efficient and modern in the world for their size. They are not large enough."

Gov. Morrow Is Speaker.

At an auditorium theater meeting under the auspices of the Union League club, to which thousands flocked at 10 o'clock, Gov. Morrow was the principal speaker.

He said every citizen is a debtor to the nation to an extent which can never be repaid.

Gov. EDWIN MORROW, never be repaid in dollars and cents or in service, and which demands an allegiance that is instant and unquestioning.

"On this day every son of freedom should drink anew from the fountains of freedom," he declared. "Every son should recognize and acknowledge his debts to the republic, and should solemnly determine that debt shall be paid in measure heaped up and running over."

First Regiment Celebrates.

A Washington ball was given at the First Regiment Infantry armory, and was attended by friends, members, and former members of the regiment.

Members of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic held sixty-six local councils throughout the city.

MEMORIES

Mrs. H. B. Gardiner, gold star mother, views tablet which city yesterday unveiled to its hero dead of the world war.

MAYOR THOMPSON yesterday paid tribute to the city's hero dead, to whose memory the city unveiled a bronze tablet in the main corridors of the city hall.

America and American citizens are proud of the American soldier, living or dead," he said. "I yield to none in my respect for the flag and uniform of my country."

"To these mothers and fathers of stalwart boys who in our latest war in obedience to the call of their country, went forth to fight and to die under the call of Old Glory, I bring the consolation they may derive from the knowledge that their sons, just entering into glorious manhood, died as soldiers of the republic in the performance of their duty, and that they, too, are entitled to their full share of the honor and the glory which a generous and grateful nation accords to its defenders."

The tablet was designed by Nancy Cox McCormack, who briefly explained the thought back of her work.

AQUITANIA HELD AT QUARANTINE ALL LAST NIGHT
New York, Feb. 22.—(Special.)—The Aquitania, Southampton and Cherbourg, with 515 first, 790 second, and 1,652 steerage passengers, was detained at quarantine all night. The 2,957 passengers, with the exception of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador, and his private secretary, remained aboard.

Among the passengers were Boris Rakhmetiev, former Russian ambassador; Gen. William Bramwell Booth, Salvation Army, and Sir John Foster Fraser, lecturer.

Mendel Beiliss, charged several years ago with the "ritual murder" of a Christian boy, Andrew Yushinsky, and who was acquitted, was another passenger.

Eighty-nine Polish immigrants were found to be vermin infested. Dr. Leonard E. Cofer, health officer, ordered them to Hoffman island.

FRENCH JOIN IN YANKS' TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON
PARIS, Feb. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—France joined with America today in paying tribute to Washington, the observance closing with a banquet this evening at the American club, where the American ambassador, Hugh C. Wallace; Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, commander of the American army of occupation, and Marshal Fayolle spoke.

Marshal Foch was unable to attend on account of the London conference.

Marshal Fayolle recalled his campaign in Meuse and Champagne, where Americans fought under him; told of his trip to the United States, and expressed his appreciation of the ties of friendship existing between France and America.

G. K. C. WRITES A FEW THOUGHTS WITH HIS CIGAR

"Prohibition? Mere Matter of Dollar Sign."

One would never suspect him of being our leading American best seller. His accent, mannerisms, and dress are so peculiarly his own that he is almost unrecognizable with a lump of sugar. He thinks with his cigar, a black London cheroot.

He (Gilbert K. Chesterton) was sipping a cup of tea, expertly brewed by Mrs. Chesterton, when a reporter yesterday entered his room at the Blackstone. Before he submitted to interrogation he lighted the cigar.

"My muse," he explained. "A Parnassian pleasure. Tobacco smoke is the lehor of mental life. Some men write with a pencil, others with a typewriter. I write with my cigar."

Prohibition is a dollar sign. With the thumb and forefinger of his right hand—a hand that would inspire the respect of any stevedore and perfectly proportioned to his 6 foot 3 of bulking brawn—he daintily gripped the fragile handle of the teacup and carried it to his lips for an infinitesimal sip. Then he began talking of prohibition.

"It's a beautiful theory but an abominable practice. The worst phase of prohibition is that it doesn't prohibit. The law is interpreted, I have learned even in my short visit here, not by legislation, not by morals, but by the dollar sign. Prohibition prohibits the rich from getting their drinks, which they may and do easily procure because they have the money. Prohibition prohibits the poor from getting their drinks, which they cannot and do not procure because they have not got the money."

He's a Bolshevik, but—The cigar had gone out. Mr. Chesterton struck a match and lighted it. Two meditative puffs and:

"Yes, I'm a Bolshevik. But I'm a democratic Bolshevik, not a socialist Bolshevik. I believe no one class should rule the masses. I believe the interests of freedom will be served by a general distribution of private property among as many people as possible."

"I adore bolshevism so long as it takes the form of destruction. When it assumes the duties of construction, I loathe and detest it. When it proposes to destroy a capitalist system which makes free men more servile than slaves, the system is admirable. But when that same movement aspires to foist upon us a new and equally tyrannical system, such as the soviet, then I rebel."

Some Chesterton Gems.

Mr. Chesterton during the interview put a quantity of old wine in new wine skins. He is brilliantly obvious. Some of his observations:

"The old fashioned woman is condemned because she was so recently new fashioned. We always reform or ridicule, not the customs of the remote past, but the new customs of the day before yesterday which are just beginning to grow old. This is true of furniture and parents.

"The crime wave in your country might well be traced to visitors from Great Britain, who are asked all manner of questions regarding subjects they know nothing about, and who are thus furnished with the motives for a few homicides."

Chicago's smoke nuisance has frequently been likened to the London fog. But to Mr. Chesterton it is merely "a tinge of the Celtic atmosphere."

Throughout the interview he was profoundly concerned, not with the subjects under discussion, but with the black cheroot. Seven times it went out. Seven times he relighted it. The eighth time he tossed it away.

He will lecture tonight at Orchestra hall. His theme will be "The Ignorance of the Educated."

QUAKE IN CHINA KILLS THOUSANDS, LONDON HEARS

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The destruction by the Chinese earthquake on Dec. 16, covered an area of 40,000 square miles in four provinces, according to information received by the London Times from the Chinese inland mission. The province of Kansu was the greatest sufferer; in some places nearly half the houses were destroyed.

Probably many thousands were killed; land slides buried whole villages, and hundreds of persons were engulfed.

IT'S THE "LOST QUAKE."

On Dec. 16, 1920, seismographs at various points in America recorded a terrific earthquake, but there was no word from any part of the world.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1921, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Feb. 22.—There was no meeting of the near eastern conference of the allied supreme council today. The official reason was given as the illness of Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish grand visier, but the real reason, it was openly admitted, was because the Constantinople and Ankara delegations had not had time to get together and agree upon the Turkish demands.

The conference meets in St. James palace at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the Turks will state their case. The representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan met this morning at 10 Downing street and received an application from Lithuania for recognition de jure. Lithuania now is recognized as a de facto government.

The allies decided to postpone action upon the request, and also on a request from the Arabs that they be heard by the conference on the Turkish question.

With regard to the blockade proposition, it was learned that organization of the blockade commission has been begun. The commission will comprise delegates from France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Norway, Spain, Sweden, and Cuba.

An international conference on the welfare of women and children was called by the council to meet at Geneva during the last week of June.

Another step taken by the council was to draft a reply to the German objections to the plebiscite in the Eupen and Malmédy districts. In this reply Germany was reminded that the council already had definitely recognized the Belgian title to these districts.

The previous record is said to be 20,900 feet. Chambers landed six miles from his take-off.

SAAR INDUSTRY SHRINKING UNDER FRENCH CONTROL

People Charge Violation of Peace Treaty.

This is the fourth article on conditions in the occupied Rhineland and Alsace-Lorraine as seen by a correspondent of the New York World, who conducted a careful inquiry. Today the correspondent treats of the Saar valley, which was a center of conflict in the Paris peace conference.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
(Copyright, 1921, By The Press Publishing Company (The New York World).)
LONDON, Feb. 22.—The Saar district was handed over to France under the terms of the Versailles peace treaty, together with the coal mines within the frontiers of the area, which were assigned to the French in compensation for destruction by Germany of many of the mines in Pas de Calais. The Saar, however, is not French territory. It is governed under the treaty by an international commission, and the league of nations is the trustee. At the end of fifteen years a plebiscite is to be taken, and the future status of the territory will depend upon the wishes of the inhabitants then expressed.

Coal Miners Grumble.
In 1913 the coal production of the Saar was 13,000,000 tons, or 7 per cent. of the total coal production of Germany, and there were 33,000 miners in the area, who with their families made up about one-quarter of the whole population. About 50,000 German miners are now working for the French, amid considerable discontent and grumbling, but under much better economic conditions than their fellow workers in Germany.

Before the war most of the Saar coal went to South Germany. There are other important industries in the Saar which the French are now developing. Iron mills continue under difficulties, using ore imported from Lorraine. The attempt by the French to divert iron products from their former markets in Germany to France has undoubtedly deranged the iron industry in the Saar, and the correspondent is told that not half the work is being done now that was accomplished before the war.

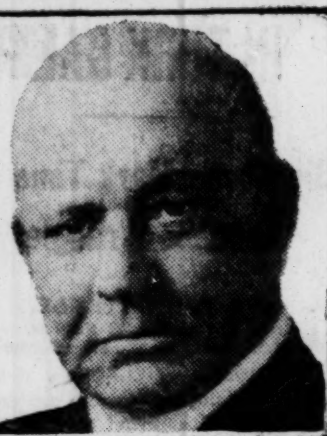

French Liberal to Miners.
Economically the Saar is better off not only than the Ruhr or the occupied areas of the Rhineland, but even than Alsace and Lorraine. The French have been exceedingly liberal in their payment of the miners and other workers in France instead of making for their labor at something approaching the old rate of exchange, ignoring the fact that the franc is now worth about 5 marks.

The reasons for this liberality are political. The French desire to "Frenchify" the Saar during the next fifteen years so that the inhabitants will vote for union with France. Notwithstanding these efforts to conciliate the population by giving them good pay and seeing that they get enough food, the correspondent found that the sentiment of the mass of the people was extremely bitter toward the invaders.

Charge Treaty Violation.
According to the treaty, the governing commission under the league of nations should consult the wishes of the population in its procedure, but the

CABINET TIMBER

Tentative Selection of Detroit Lawyer Causes Surprise.

EDWIN DENBY.

The tentative selection of Edwin Denby of Detroit for the navy portfolio in Mr. Harding's cabinet came as a surprise to politicians. Mr. Denby had not been publicly mentioned as a possibility for a cabinet post. He is, however, regarded as well fitted for the place. Born in Evansville, Ind., in 1870, he was graduated from the Evansville high school. In 1885 he went to China with his father, the late Charles Denby, then minister to Peking.

He served in the Chinese Imperial maritime customs service from 1887, until he returned to the United States to study law. Entering the University of Michigan in 1894 he completed his law course in two years and began practice in Detroit. He was elected to congress in 1902, serving until 1910. At the outbreak of the world war he enlisted as a private of marines. He retired as a major.

population with one voice proclaims that this is not being done. Many laws have been altered and new ones passed without such consultation.

The bitterest grievance of the inhabitants of the Saar is that they are being governed illegally in violation of the treaty of Versailles. After an examination of the clauses of the treaty referring to the Saar and of the conditions prevailing there, the World correspondent feels able to state definitely that this is undoubtedly true.

French Military Régime.
From the date of the armistice until the peace treaty came into force on Jan. 10, 1920, the Saar district remained under French military dictatorship. The inhabitants have here no overwhelming grievance, although they contend that the French military régime was strict, that no freedom of speech was permitted, and that the French deported many hundreds of leading citizens for political reasons.

In April, 1919, the French commandant at Saarbrücken called together the town councilors and asked them what attitude they would take if Saarbrücken should eventually become French. They replied, after consultation, that they would make known their intentions when this had happened, and sang the German national anthem.

Under the terms of the peace treaty the government of the Saar was turned over to a governing commission under the league of nations consisting of five persons, of whom one, as the treaty provides, is a native of the Saar district.

Control Lies with French.
The British representative, Dr. Waugh, is a Canadian and a Liberal who has the interests of the population at heart and does not regard himself merely as an agent of the French government. But the control of the commission is in the hands of the other three.

The president of the governing commission is M. Victor Rault, a Frenchman. He has earned the hatred of the Germans by what are described as his violent and dictatorial manners. The correspondent was unable to see him, and was threatened with deportation from the district by two petty French officers for the crime of making a determined and repeated effort to get an interview with some member of the governing commission.

That no investigation into the methods of government or administration of the Saar is welcome at this time was made clear to the correspondent by subordinates of the commissioners. Only one official working with this august body would consent to discuss the question: "Is the governing commission really representing the league of nations or governing on behalf of France?"

"Mischievous" in the Truth.

This man said: "Only mischief can be done by a analysis of the governmental conditions here at this stage. We are in a transitional period. The league of nations is not yet in a position to fulfill its full duties and meanwhile we must carry on somehow. I beg that you will not go into the details of the administration in anything you may write for the United States."

The correspondent, disregarding this plea, gathered such facts as he could. Under the Versailles treaty it is provided that the local courts in the Saar shall be retained. French military courts, the Germans contend, and their contention seems borne out, were not permissible under the treaty as soon as the league of nations took over the control. The French, however, have refused to abolish their military courts, and these continue to function, while the local courts, where they exist, are subordinate to those of the French.

Besides the grievance of the inhabitants against the continuance of French military courts, one of the principal issues is the new Supreme court set up by the governing commission.

Every German with whom the correspondent discussed the situation called attention to this "French Supreme court," and claimed that it is a mere organ of the foreign office in Paris.

Although, as has been said, the workers in the Saar are better off than those in the districts around them, German business interests claim that they have been hardly treated. The trade of the district before the war was almost wholly with Germany, but the French, since the occupation, have made every effort to bring in French capital, improve railway communication with France, and set the tide of trade flowing in the other direction.

This has involved great dislocation of local commercial interests, and heavy losses to German firms and merchants, with corresponding profits to the French; and, while the process has not yet gone far, the German inhabitants claim it is clearly part of the scheme by which the French intend to Frenchify the entire region before the plebiscite of 1935.

Contempt for French.
Contempt is the word that best fits the attitude toward the French of the German workers in the mines. In the Rhineland the predominant feeling is hatred.

One of the first acts of the French when they entered the Saar was to deport to Germany the managers, foremen, engineers, and all the most highly skilled technical workers employed in the mines.

But, as was to be expected, the French managers and technical workers sent in to take control of the mines were unfamiliar with local conditions. The result was that the 50,000 miners under them, seeing the output go down and inefficiency replace the efficient German methods, drew their own conclusions.

One effect of this wholesale change of management has been a heavy decline in output from the mines, even heavier than in the Ruhr or the mines in France which are operated, as compared with pre-war figures. Wages have risen until they stand even in terms of purchasing power at nearly one-half above pre-war rates.

How France would have Germany at her mercy if she should get the coal supply of the Ruhr, in addition to her control of the iron beds she has already taken over, is shown by the New York World correspondent in the article to be printed tomorrow.

U. S. SHIPS READY TO CARRY FOOD TO HUNGRY CHINA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Use of shipping board vessels to carry relief cargoes to China has been considered in several recent conferences between Secretary Daniels and Chairman Benson.

Authorization by congress is all that prevents the navy from carrying relief supplies to China, Admiral Robert Coates, chief of naval operations, today informed the senate appropriations committee in connection with the Kenyon bill to appropriate $400,000 for taking a cargo of grain, donated by western farmers, to the famine sufferers of China.

The committee, before taking action on the bill, decided to request the state department to ascertain from the Chinese legation if there was actual need for the foodstuff.

VALPARAISO, IND., HAS HOLIDAY ON GIFT CORN DAY

All roads in Porter county, Indiana, led to Valparaiso yesterday. It was invisible guest day.

School children had tacked tiny American flags about the roof and corners of an old red freight car side-tracked at the Napoleon street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad.

They flattered to the breeze as wagons and trucks, filled with shelled corn, drove up to the car to be unloaded.

Bankers, merchants, clerks and farmers helped shovel the corn into the car. It was a holiday in Valparaiso.

By sunset 800 bushels had been handled.

"for I Hear the Songs My Mother Used to Sing"

Softly and clearly, I hear the words:
"Just a song at twilight when the lights are low,
And the flick'ring shadows softly come and go."

And crooning so sweetly, oh so sweetly:
"Lullaby and good night!
With roses delight—
Creep into thy bed,
There pillow thy head."

And crooning so sweetly, oh so sweetly:
"Lullaby and good night!
With roses delight—
Creep into thy bed,
There pillow thy head."

NOTE: Written on a piece of ordinary note paper and unsigned by the writer, the following article came to us through the mail several weeks ago. Although it bears no particular relation to the Brunswick Phonograph, we are publishing it, because it strikes a sentimental chord in our own hearts and suggests the important role a phonograph may play in the drama of home life—if only in enabling us to pause long enough, in the rush of a commercialized age, to spend an evening now and then with the songs our mothers loved to sing.

Softly and clearly, I hear the words:

"Just a song at twilight when the lights are low,
And the flick'ring shadows softly come and go.
Tho' the heart be weary,
Sad the day and long,
Still to us at twilight
Comes Love's old song."

Time has turned backward in its flight! I am a child again. And my mother stands before me.

Half sung, half hummed, comes now to beguile me,

"Carry me back to old Virginia,
There's where the cotton and the corn and 'tatoes grow.
There's where the birds warble sweet
in the Springtime."

And crooning so sweetly, oh so sweetly,

"Lullaby and good night!
With roses delight—
Creep into thy bed,
There pillow thy head."

I smile with her through "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." And laugh in remembrance of my first minstrel songs.

But then comes "Silver Threads," and there's a tightening of my throat—and with Old Black Joe, a tear falls on my hand.

So I change to a favorite of my own. And it's bed time. And life is sweet.

In the Homes of Greatest Musicians—The Brunswick

Greatest musicians of Europe and America agree that The Brunswick more closely approaches true rendition of the tones of the voice, the piano and all other musical instruments, than any other phonograph. And that it conveys sustained notes of mellow quality and mighty crescendos of volume with equal facility.

This is due to the Brunswick Method of Reproduction, embodying the Ultratone and the Tone Amplifier—patented Brunswick features which result in the playing of all makes of records with a freedom from mechanical suggestion, almost startling to one accustomed to hearing the ordinary type of phonograph.

Our many attendants will be delighted to explain and demonstrate these features to you. And, incidentally, to show the complete Brunswick display of Standard models and Period Designs—especially interesting to the bride, as well as to the lover of fine furniture—in which a super-phonograph is combined with the highest expression of the cabinet makers' art.

Special!

Many of the sweet melodies and heart songs of long ago are obtainable in Brunswick Records.

Among them are:

Where the River Shannon Flows

Old Black Joe

Silver Threads Among the Gold

Carry Me Back to Old Virginia

My Wild Irish Rose

REDS MENACE EUROPE

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.
COBLENZ, Feb. 22.—Despite the announcement of the Soviet drive in the east through the Caucasus, the bulk of the bolshevik army remains on the western front. According to the best available military information 600,000 Red troops are now in position to menace western Europe from a point to be selected by the Red chiefs for their spring drive.

As the total armed strength of the Russians, exclusive of the labor battalions, is about 800,000, not more than 400,000 troops are driving towards Germany to establish communications with Mustafa Kemal Pasha.

As winter gives way to spring the concentrations of troops in the region of Breslau, for an attack against the Rhine district, are increased.

Thin Out Northern Force.

Along the borders of the Baltic the Reds are thinning out practically the entire strength of the northern forces and are placing them in position for an attack on the disputed province of Lithuania, where Gen. Zelinski and his Polish volunteers hold the city of Vilna by force of arms.

The advance troops to the south are rapidly concentrated before Lemberg, for the purpose of making a drive through Galicia or southward into Rumania. Curiously enough, the reports from Moscow regarding the possibility of a drive on Poland state that nearly all the reserves are concentrated south of Kiev. There is practically no reserve strength northward.

The main Polish border is not menaced. In the Pripiet marshes, through which the armistice line runs, there are only border guards totaling not more than a few thousand men.

Budenny on West Front?

It is believed in military circles that Gen. Budenny's cavalry is still on the western front. Reports to the presence of the general himself on the Caucasus front are undoubtedly true, but observers here doubt the difficulties of transporting his forces in such a short time from the west.

British divisions of infantry and some divisions of cavalry have been stationed on the western front since the first of January. One division, sent on its way to the western front, is expected to arrive at the front about the first of March.

Flying from Pacific to Atlantic

[Copyright: Underwood & Underwood.]

LIEUT. WILLIAM D. COVEY, 81st aero squadron, who started from San Diego, Cal., Monday night in an attempt to fly to the Atlantic coast in twenty-four hours, was forced to land yesterday morning at Bronte, Tex., because of carburetor trouble. He expected to renew his journey as soon as repairs had been made.

THREE FLYERS IN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE HERE TODAY

Death, Engines, Snow, Halt 3 Aviators.

BULLETIN.
Omaha, Neb., Feb. 23.—Pilot Jack Knight hopped off at 2 o'clock this morning en route for Chicago. He had just landed from North Platte. Knight has never been over the route before, but after consultation of air maps he took off.

Three airplanes laden with government mail, one from the east and the others from the west, are expected to arrive in Chicago today in the transcontinental sprint which started simultaneously yesterday morning from Hazelhurst, N. Y., and San Francisco. The planes are flying night and day.

Two of the planes that entered were wrecked yesterday during the first few hours of flight and one pilot was killed.

One westbound plane arrived here during the day and at a late hour was waiting for the snow and rain to clear away before taking off again. A second westbound plane sustained a mishap at Dubois, Pa., when Pilot E. M. Leonard landed in a mist and was delayed several hours for plane repairs. He is expected to resume this morning.

Coney to Fly Today.

At the same time Lieut. William Coney, army flyer, is expected to resume his attempt to break the transcontinental record. He was last reported at Bronte, Tex., where he landed on account of engine trouble after a perilous flight across New Mexico in heavy snow and rain storms. He left San Diego Monday and hoped to reach Jacksonville, Fla., for supper last night.

The planes and pilots are to be changed at Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Salt Lake City, and Reno on the westward flight. The plane which arrived here yesterday afternoon at 3:10 o'clock was piloted by W. J. Smith. Its mail was transferred to another plane and preparations were made to hop off on the flight to Omaha as soon as the weather cleared. This plane had been piloted by E. M. Allen from Hazelhurst to Cleveland.

PRELATE RAPS EVIL ON BOTH SIDES IN ERIN

Asks Lords for Open Book on Ireland.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.
LONDON, Feb. 22.—While presenting a motion in the house of lords today asking the government to issue official information regarding affairs in Ireland, the archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, condemned both Sinn Fein attacks and British reprisals.

"Week after week," the archbishop said, "and month after month, the so-called reprisals have been carried out, not under high military authority, but at the will of unorganized or inadequately disciplined bodies of men."

"After making every discount or allowance enough of wrong remained to make every thoughtful man uneasy."

The chief secretary for Ireland in the house of commons last night paid a well deserved tribute to the splendid character and record of the Royal Irish constabulary, but when he came to the disquieting stories with reference to the auxiliary bodies, he skirted lightly over the whole subject.

Leaves Public in Doubt.

"The chief secretary left the public in complete doubt as to whether he wanted them to regard these incidents as insignificant. We have the right to ask for more detailed information than as yet has been put before us."

The archbishop condemned the "lightness and airiness" with which the government has treated certain of the charges. He said the Sinn Fein outrages of course were worse, "ten times worse," than those of the British offenders he had been condemning, "but you can't punish wrong doing by doing wrong yourself," he concluded.

After a discussion in which the lord chancellor defended the government's policy, the archbishop intimated the withdrawal of his motion and the house adjourned.

Sir Hamar Apologizes.

When commons adjourned tonight Sir Hamar Greenwood rose and apologized to his associates for his remarks during the Irish debate last night, in which he accused Herbert Asquith of unwittingly aiding the Sinn Feiners.

The chief secretary said he had quoted in good faith a French newspaper article which contained a letter signed "Masterman," formerly a minister in Mr. Asquith's cabinet.

"Now I understand Mr. Masterman denies writing this letter. I apologize and withdraw my remarks," Sir Hamar said.

Black and Tans May Go.

The reign of the black and tans in Ireland may be coming to an end. It was announced today that Brig. Gen. Crosier, the commandant of the military division of the R. I. C. (the black and tans), and his adjutant, Capt. McFee, have resigned. However, a high official in the Irish government said the resignations were asked for and that the move means there will be an entire change in the Irish policy.

It is declared that Gen. Crosier has been the man held responsible for the lack of discipline in the black and tan organization. A successor has not been appointed.

DUBLIN, Feb. 22.—It was officially announced today that twenty-eight members of the Irish "republican army" who were drilling at Ballinrobe, County Mayo, were surrounded and captured by crown forces. The volunteers were unarmed.

A wagonload of tires for British air forces in Ireland was seized north of Dublin last night and burned.

LYON & HEALY · Everything Known in Music

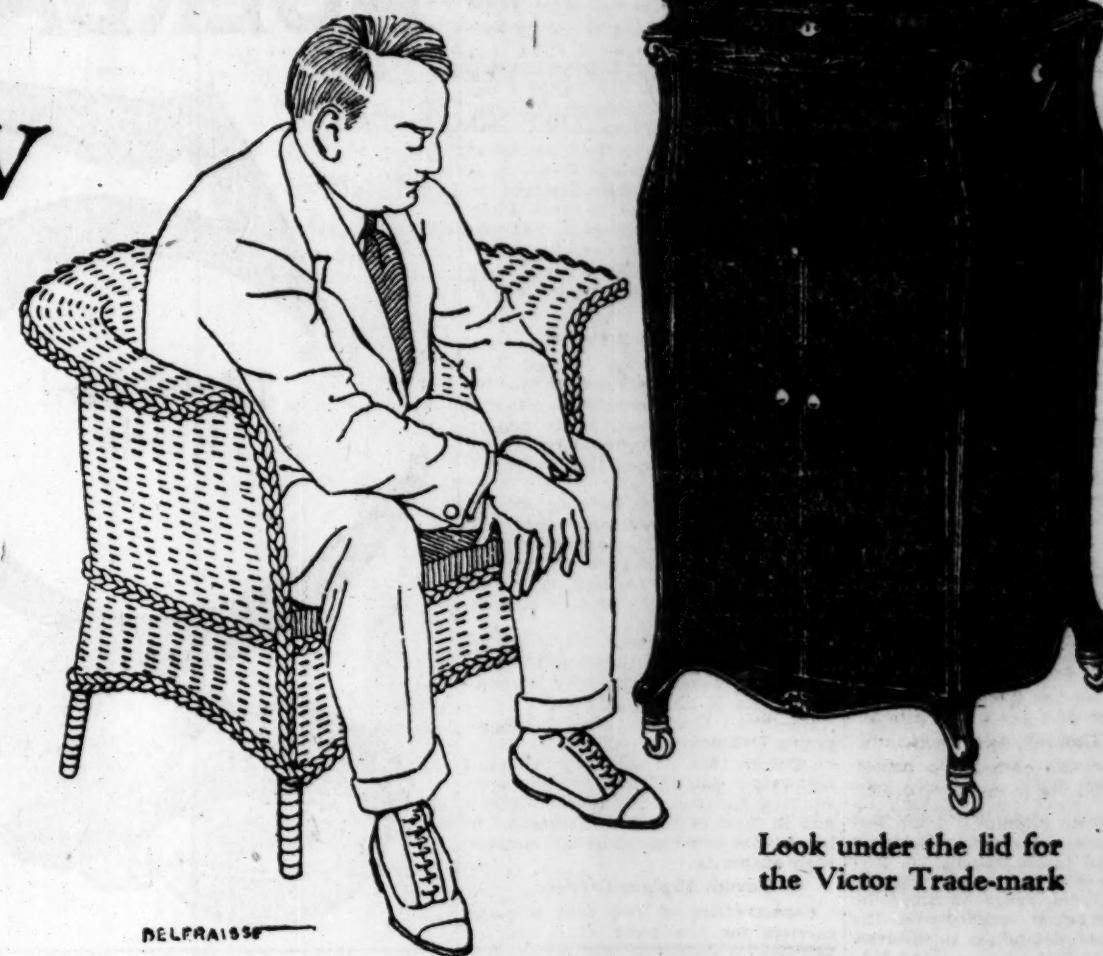

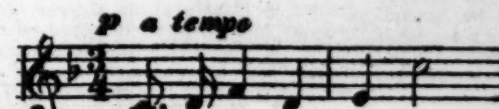

Store Hours: 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wabash Avenue at Jackson
CONCERT HALL, Main Floor

Just a song at twilight when the lights are low

AN old familiar air, a ballad by Moore, how pleasant they are when heard at evening! They pour magic oil on the troubled waters of daily life and give us return to quiet content.

In what better manner can you enjoy the pleasures of music than in listening to the great artists who are best fitted to bring them to you. Caruso, Farrar, Melba, McCormack, how wondrously they sing the old songs. And they and a score of other supreme artists await your evening's pleasure in the Victrola.

They choose the Victrola as the medium for bringing their voices to you—because of its absolute fidelity in reproducing. Every jealously guarded quality of tone or manner is preserved imperishably in their records and so they sing exclusively for the Victrola. They know it to be the supreme instrument and in following their choice you cannot be mistaken.

Look under the lid for the Victor Trade-mark

Come in and permit us to demonstrate this to you. We shall gladly play for you any of your favorite songs by one of these great artists. This is without any obligation to you.

VISITORS are always welcome here. We wish them to feel free to stroll leisurely through all salesrooms. Come tomorrow—and let us play for you a few of the new records. We are sure that you will enjoy the time you spend here.

In our Concert Hall, main floor, we play the latest records daily from 11:00 to 5:00 P. M. With the records are numbers by artists in person. All are invited to attend these concerts without charge.

Educational Department—Victrolas and records are here offered under ideal conditions to schools and to students. We invite especially those interested in teaching to visit this department.

Telephone Service—Special salespersons are engaged in receiving record orders. This makes it possible for our customers to order records with the certainty of receiving prompt and intelligent co-operation. Records are sent out on a three days approval provided that at least one-third are retained.

Bulletins—Thousands of record buyers are represented on our mailing list. We shall be delighted to add your name and you will then receive numerous bulletins of new records without expense.

ENVY, HATE KEEP EUROPE IN SICK BED—McCORMICK

Finds Allies Suffering Industry Collapse.

Senator Medill McCormick spoke last night at two meetings under auspices of five organizations that are collecting funds for relief of the distressed in Germany and Austria. The crowd at North Side Turner hall, was an overflow meeting from the one at Madison temple. About 5,000 persons were at Madison temple, and nearly half as many at Turner hall. Two thousand two hundred and sixty dollars was subscribed to the relief fund.

Senator McCormick's address was a word picture of hungry children pleading for food and clothing; of unemployed men and women; of political and economic distress of a sick Europe, which he saw on a recent tour. Hate, distrust, and envy are aggravating reconstruction ills, he said.

Jealousies as Bitter as Hatred.
"The traveler returning from Europe," said Senator McCormick, "comes from an old world where the rivalries and bitter jealousies between the peoples which have been allies are all most equal to the hates which were enemies; as comes from an old world in which is the general rule that if nations are neighbors they bear one another's death." "I have heard with great distress of the death of your distinguished son and beg to extend my deepest sympathy to you and members of his family."

Funeral services will be held here Thursday morning. The body will be taken to Little Rock, Ark., for burial. From Washington President Wilson telegraphed tonight to William F. McCormick Sr.:

"I have heard with great distress of the death of your distinguished son and beg to extend my deepest sympathy to you and members of his family."

Vienna Filled with Misery.
The senator told of the lack of employment, hunger, and general misery that besets many of the countries he visited. The suffering is most apparent in Austria, he said.

"It is not until the traveler reaches Vienna that he truly senses the real, full misery born of the war. It was our lot to travel by night past Prague and, as it were, to come suddenly and unexpectedly face to face with despair. There was want, there was disease, there was hunger, but of all the specters that walked the streets of Vienna the one which haunted me with its agonies, which after I left followed me through Europe, was gray, silent, uncomplaining, bitter despair. Vienna is a hungry city. There are some who are starving."

Two Great States Gone.
"You must remember that, in an economic sense, two great states have disappeared; that Austria, Hungary, which was an economic mosaic but an administrative and economic unity, has been shattered into fragments, while Russia, the great producer of raw materials in Europe, the vast market for the finished products of the other and more skilled civilizations, has by her own revolution been utterly withdrawn from Europe."

"The total number of states west of Russia has been increased by seven, each circumscribed by tariffs, by restrictions upon travel and railway transit, that are tantamount to a blockade. If there is ruin to the east of central Europe, to the west of it the victorious countries are beset by economic disorders and crushed by continuing deficits."

Allies' Industries Collapse.
"The most prosperous—Belgium, the British Isles, and Switzerland, untouched by the war—are suffering from a collapse of industry, a diminution of production, and a falling off of commerce. Outward appearances are deceptive. There is in the great centers a seeming activity which conceals the truth."

"A still closer examination will disclose the truth that the artificial industry and hectic prosperity which followed the signing of the armistice is at its end in western Europe, as in America."

Senator McCormick referred to Food as "brave, hungry, and resolute." He said he was led to believe that, with an army of 750,000 men, it is now able to hold the eastern front against the bolsheviks. Except in Bavaria communism as a political factor in Germany is dead, according to Senator McCormick.

"Never in my life," said Senator McCormick, "have I beheld a fiercer army of men than our army of occupation around Coblenz, those who represent the might, the majesty, and the honor of the United States in Europe."

MARQUETTE CEMENT MANUFACTURING COMPANY

says:

Photograph copyright by Harris & Ewing, Washington, D. C.

It is, perhaps, enough to say of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE that it affords clean mental refreshment. This is an accomplishment of great importance!

More than this, however, it makes accessible to its readers the broadening influence, of value not to be underestimated, which attaches to the popular presentation of really good contemporary fiction.

The March number, with the variety and attractiveness of its contents, holds out the invitation and sustains the interest that has come to be associated with the monthly appearance of the Magazine. I have thoroughly enjoyed reading it.

Ernest Martin Hopkins

Dr. Hopkins, the distinguished president of Dartmouth College, in the concluding paragraph of his gratifying expression, quoted above, mentions in particular the March issue, the literary features of which are—

Beauty, by RUPERT HUGHES, a novel of extraordinary power concerned with the inner lives of a group of persons of great wealth and the mystery attending the death of the princess of the group—Clelia Blakeney.

Conflict, by CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND, a novel of the great north woods in which age battles with youth for the soul of youth.

Fair to Middling, by NALBRO BARTLEY, a novel of the bone and sinew of today's America—fair to middling folks, like most of us, as vivid as today's life itself, by the author of "A Woman's Woman."

The Disappearing Bed, by EDWARD MOTT WOOLLEY, a story as timely as this morning, concerned as it is with profiteering landlords and how, on one occasion, such a landlord's plans were beaten by a tenant.

The Little Lord of All the Earth, by JACK BOYLE, a deeply moving and exquisitely faithful story of the heart of that ancient China which is yet in our own America.

Fear, by COURTNEY RYLEY COOPER, a new sort of animal story, and the first of a series that you will call unique in your reading experience.

The Rift, by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, another of the extraordinary adventures that befell Mr. Cray of the U. S. A. in London.

By the Clock, by MRS. WILSON WOODROW, still another exploit of Ramsey in his pursuit of the suave and slippery Achison, lawyer and adventurer.

133 at 3, by GERALD BEAUMONT, a singularly touching yet powerfully dramatic story of a prize fighter and of the fight in which a double victory was won.

A Taste of Revenge, by PETER CLARK MACFARLANE, a story of mining business as it is sometimes conducted yet never should be.

Bringing Home the Errant Husband, by LUCIAN CARY, a story of married life that husbands might well read to their wives for both their sakes.

Kincaid's Angel Child, by GEORGE PATULLO, a different sort of child story—perhaps a more appealing sort for that very reason.

The Mistake of M. Bruette, by GEORGE T. MARSH, a story of the fur country of Hudson's Bay and the tremendous influence exerted over that living land by a single man.

Why Should We Waste Our Millionaires? by BRUCE BARTON, an editorial of peculiar timeliness by a man who says the things we wish we'd said.

$1,400,000 FOR HALF YEAR FIGHT ON LIQUOR

Drys Win Battle for Full Appropriation.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Friends of prohibition enforcement in the house today won another battle to keep liquor beyond the reach of those not permitted to handle or drink it. They put through a motion directing conference on the deficiency bill to give the government $1,400,000 to break up the liquor traffic from now until July 1. It was the top figure discussed.

Before the vote was taken, however, charges flew thick. Chairman Good of the appropriations committee declared enforcement agents openly winked at the law's violation, while Representative Volstead came back with the charge that attempt was made to break down the machinery of enforcement through failure to provide adequate appropriations.

Others jumped into the fray and for an hour it was much like the old days of prohibition fighting in congress. Calling Wayne Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, by name, Mr. Good declared "Mr. Wheeler will tell you that there are more wets than dries in the enforcement bureau, and yet he comes and demands that you vote more money for them."

Mr. Wheeler, leaning over the gallery rail, looked down and smiled. "There may be men in the service who ought to be discharged," Representative Volstead declared, "but there is no surplus of help. I charge that the chairman of the appropriations committee advocates the breaking down of the system. The prohibition commissioner insists he must have money, and I want the country to know that effort is being made right here on this floor to throw down the law."

Representative Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, told the house that a tax of 7½ cents was imposed on every man, woman, and child in the United States to keep the nation dry.

BANK OF KINDNESS

Draw Check on It for the Unfortunate.

BY REV. G. A. MAC WHORTER.

Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, chairman of the Chicago committee of the Serbian Child Welfare Association of America, announces a meeting next Tuesday at 4 o'clock at the Drake hotel to receive the Rt. Rev. Nicholas Velimirovic, bishop of the Serbian Orthodox church. He will speak of the problems of the children of Serbia. Bishop Velimirovic has many friends in this country as a result of his previous visit in 1915, when he came as a priest to call to the colors his fellow-countrymen living here, and to thank the people of America for their kindness to suffering Serbia. He is one of the most distinguished prelates of Serbia, and his present visit here is made at the request of several churches and universities.

Although the Serbian Child Welfare association has the active cooperation of the American Red Cross in the matter of supplies, it conducts all activities in behalf of the Serbian children in conjunction with national and private Serbian agencies. The present "drives" on behalf of the children of central Europe will not affect the Serbian fund, which is carrying on and will continue to provide food, clothing and schooling for these children, thousands of whom are orphaned and in desperate need.

Dr. R. E. Roeder, the commissioner, is in charge of a large corps of American and Serbian physicians, dentists, nurses, teachers and social service workers.

New York, Feb. 22.—The special performance of "Carmen," with Miss Geraldine Farrar in her familiar role of the cigarette girl, followed by a series of symbolic tableaux, realized fully $50,000 towards New York's quota for the European relief council's child feeding fund.

WINS FURLONG BY CLIMB. Private James Cunningham won a ninety day furlough from Camp Dix, N. J., when he shinned up a ninety foot pole to replace a pulley that civilian workmen said could not be replaced without lowering the pole. Maj. Gen. C. P. Summerall, G. O., was so pleased that he gave Cunningham a day's leave for every foot shinned.

WILSON WILL NOT WRITE HISTORY OF PARIS PARLEY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—President Wilson expressed the determination today to devote himself upon retirement to private life to a continuation of his efforts toward world peace. In his first public utterance since the November election, the president, in receiving a delegation from the Woodrow Wilson club of Harvard university at the White House, declared he had no intention of writing a history of the Paris peace conference.

He added that was a task he preferred to leave to the professional historian, as the public might be prone to take into consideration the personal equation in any account of the peace proceedings he might write. After their visit members of the delegation stated that they "were deeply impressed with the great heart of the president as he seemed in reflection to think over the question of peace."

FRICK ESTATE CUT 60 PER CENT BY SLUMP, TAXES

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The $50,000,000 believed to have been left by Henry Clay Frick, coke and steel pioneer, to charitable and religious institutions appeared to have shrunk to about $20,000,000 because of depreciation in the market value of securities and the deduction of huge sums in taxes. This became known today.

Mr. Frick's estate first was estimated at close to $150,000,000, of which about $117,500,000, it was thought, was to go to public benefactions. To his family Mr. Frick left the lump sum of $25,000,000.

The full extent of the shrinkage was not suspected until John R. H. Fitch, chairman of the finance committee of the board of trustees of Princeton university, announced to the alumni in Princeton today that the $15,000,000 which the university expected to get from Mr. Frick when the will was first published had shrunk to $6,000,000 because of taxes and reduced valuation of securities.

Industrial Imagination

Lockwood, Greene & Co., industrial architects and engineers, offer you an organized service, complete in every respect. But, in addition to that more or less tangible service, they offer you an "industrial imagination."

Lockwood, Greene conceptions are correct from an engineering standpoint. They are right from an economic standpoint. They are sound from a production standpoint.

But these conceptions are more than the cold, technical manipulation of so much floor space. Architecturally in the industrial field they are what our banks, our better hotels and our cathedrals are in their respective fields.

They express the spirit of the organizations which they house. They are suited to their natural surroundings as well as to their commercial purposes.

The new home of the Holeproof Hosiery Company is an example of this—an expression of what we term our "industrial imagination."

You need more than mere materials and men, to mold your building. You need foresight—and above all "industrial imagination."

May we help you build more than just a building? Our nearest office will be pleased to assist.

WOMEN PROTEST MADONNA WITH SHORT SKIRTS

A painting of the Madonna and Christ Child, exhibited in a collection.

By local artists shown at the Art Institute and painted by Claude Buck, has aroused some controversy among patrons of art. The painting depicts a peasant woman as the "Mother Mary" holding the Christ Child in her lap.

The sincerity and spiritual conception of the work are praised. But the Madonna is depicted in short skirts, reaching just below the knees, and, to some, this is not in keeping with tradition and has caused controversy.

Mr. Buck received a letter from Mrs. William J. Zeh, president of the Catholic Art society, asking for an interview with him at the institute. Mrs. Zeh told me she represented fifty women who had held a lively discussion concerning the picture. "The artist said in his studio at 128 South Wabash avenue, "They objected to the undraped condition of the Madonna's legs below the knees, and had appointed a committee to look into the matter, she said. "She asked me either to change the title of the picture, or to paint the dress longer. She declared that at present the painting is offensive. "The painting is my own conception. I have made the Madonna a peasant woman, and no offense is offered because her dress is abbreviated. It is only natural. I was so conscientious about the work I did not think of that fact.

"Anyway, the picture shows just the way a mother would be after she had held a child in her lap ten minutes. My wife posed for the picture." At her home, 4400 Maiden avenue, Mrs. Zeh said: "I cannot discuss this thing. Mr. Buck, I find, is a hard working artist, and is sincere. It is possible artists are sometimes misunderstood."

Mrs. Zeh is known as a patron of art. She is president of the Perboyre Art and Culture club, an organization whose purpose is to arouse in children an interest in religious works of art, and an appreciation of the significance of the form and ritual of the church. In January, 1914, ninety-five children of the organization met to abolish the expression "I should worry."

Why The Noiseless is SO DURABLE

The durability of The Noiseless Typewriter, over a period of years, has occasioned much favorable comment.

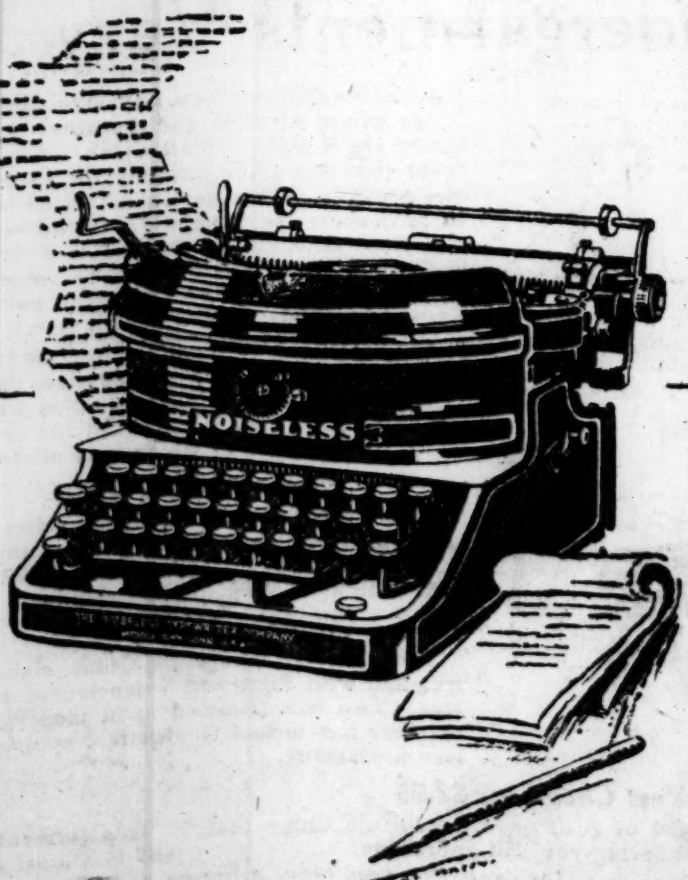

The reason is easy to understand. The very structure which makes this writing-machine noiseless also increases its durability.

The cause of typewriter noise is a sharp hammer blow. The Noiseless is unusually durable because it does not pound itself to pieces.

CLAIMS HEITLER PLANNED CAR OF BOOZE EACH WEEK

Joy Tells of $200,000
Deal and of Holdup.

DET. SGT. EDWARD SMALE, who was one of the witnesses in the trial of the twenty-five defendants in the Heitler case, is shown here.

Undaunted by a swirling crossfire of questions from attorneys for the defense, "Moosy" Joy, confessed bootlegger and star witness for the government in the trial of the twenty-five defendants in the Heitler case, today told his story to the federal jury yesterday.

He told the jury that he had purchased 100 cases of whisky from Heitler, paying $10,000, which Heitler refused to return after the whisky had been stolen by police officers.

"Where did you purchase the whisky?" asked Assistant District Attorney Glass.

"I made arrangements for the deal in Perlman's saloon at Wells and Washington streets," Joy replied.

"What was done next?"

"I saw Nick Ambrose, and he gave me $2,750. I gave a total of $14,004 to the gang."

"Did you get your whisky?"

"Yes, I got it. I went to Eighty-first street. There I found a caravan of big bodied express trucks drawn up beside a freight car. Heitler, Perlman, and the others were there."

MRS. EDWARD J. BRUNDAGE, wife of the Illinois attorney general, is a native of France, but she is enthusiastic about all-American styles.

"Why go to Paris to buy clothes," she asks, "when you can get such nice American made ones?"

In the picture she is wearing a Hosac gown of navy blue crepe, daintily beaded and embroidered in henna. It is one of the afternoon frocks that will be shown at the spring convention of the Fashion Art League of America, opening next Tuesday night at the Auditorium and Congress hotels.

Thursday afternoon and evening have been set aside for the formal promenade of fashions in the gold room of the Congress.

SHERIFF KILLS TWO MEN AND IS SHOT 4 TIMES

In a battle with three men who had robbed a freight car containing silver bullet, Deputy Sheriff E. J. Nieness of Lake county killed two of them yesterday. He was wounded four times, and is in a critical condition at St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond.

Sheriff Nieness was returning from Burnham. He alighted from a street car at White Oak avenue, the boundary of East Chicago and Hammond. He saw three men carrying a sack. He called on them to halt. They opened fire. He returned it. They dropped the sack. One ran. Two fell.

The two dead men were later identified as Antonio Yourvok and Thomas Shulack of Hammond. Shulack formerly conducted a garage at Lake George. Nieness's life was saved by his watch. A bullet penetrated his overcoat, coat, sweater, vest, and the watch, but spent itself before striking a rib just over the heart.

Slaying Acquitted; Jury Upholds Defense Plea

The right of every man to protect his home formed the basis yesterday for a verdict of "not guilty" returned by Judge Thomas Taylor Jr.'s court by jury trying the latest Italian murder case.

After deliberating eleven hours the jury acquitted Emilio Del Giudice and his wife, Concetta, of the murder of their son-in-law, Carmine Del Mato of June. Both defendants pleaded self-defense, declaring the son-in-law attempted to kill Del Giudice in the family home when the father refused to give him money and a revolver.

RENT GOUGING BILL GOES INTO SENATE TODAY

Tenants' League to Push Kessinger Measure.

"The big push to put the Kessinger anti-rent gouging bill over in. Within two weeks we shall know whether the representatives of the people at Springfield are for the people or the agents of real estate men and profiteering landlords."

With this declaration, A. E. Jessurun, secretary of the Chicago Tenants' Protective league, yesterday threw the full power of the organization behind the proposed measures aimed to give relief from high rents.

The report of the housing commission, of which Senator Kessinger is the chairman, will be submitted along with recommendations for relief to tenants to both houses of the general assembly today. Senator Kessinger will also introduce his bill, which enables local governments to establish rental commissions.

Covers Five Year Period.

The bill was written by Prof. Walter F. Dodd, secretary of the state commission, and an expert on constitutional law. The provisions of the bill expire at the end of five years, as its purpose is not to attempt to regulate the business of landlords, but simply to provide cities with power to act in an emergency such as now exists.

"This bill will not stop building, as the Chicago Real Estate board charges," said Senator Kessinger. "It is not permanent, and the law, if passed, will not exist any longer than the time it will take to erect enough buildings to end the housing shortage. The proposed law is in such shape that it can be put into effect where there are acute cases of rent profiteering. Local governments will be in a position to use the remedy if they can leave it alone."

Although he admitted that he is not acquainted with the provisions of the Kessinger bill, Augustus S. Peabody, vice chairman of the Chicago Real Estate board's anti-rent profiteering committee, said last night he is against it. The bill was explained to Mr. Peabody by the reporter.

"There has been too much legislation to regulate things," Mr. Peabody said. "The bill may be designated as a regulatory measure. I am against that sort of thing, at least until it has been proven that landlords and tenants cannot solve the question themselves."

Fear Legislation.—Jessurun.

"It is typical of the Chicago Real Estate board," said Mr. Jessurun when informed of Mr. Peabody's statement. "They are deathly afraid of legislation. They won't even look into what Senator Kessinger's bill is like. They are money men. Regardless of the welfare of the community, they do not want to lose a cent of profit. And still they think the tenants should trust them."

The Kessinger bill simply gives tenants an equal chance against landlords in this great emergency. The landlord has the same opportunity, according to the provisions of the bill, to ask for rental increases that the tenant has to plead against one.

The deluge of protests from tenants came stronger yesterday because of the holiday.

A complaint against Edward Frear, 4309 Grand boulevard, owner of a twenty-seven apartment building at 323-34 East Fifty-fifth street, was among the most heated. The tenants said the building is twenty years old, has old plumbing which has been repeatedly condemned by the city, and that the rents have been increased during the last few years from $22 to $30 and $32.

GIRL'S ATTACKER RESCUED FROM FATHER, CROWD

Detective Sergeants Simon and Miller of the Marquette station won a race last night with Alvin Grauel, 1345 South Wabasha avenue, and a number of men, his neighbors, who had set out to wreck revenge on the alleged attacker of Grauel's 7-year old daughter, Edna. The policemen had just arrested David George, alleged perpetrator of the attack, at 838 South Dearborn street, when Grauel and his companions rushed and attempted to drag the prisoner away from them.

George, identified as the child's assailant, was taken to the South Clark street station, where Grauel and his companions attempted to beat him up. They were dragged away and held in the captain's office while the prisoner was taken to the detective bureau. There records disclosed he was arrested four months ago as a suspect on a similar charge.

Realized $3,000 on Gems.

Nelson had left the cab company, but was traced by officials of the concern. He confessed he had found the jewels in the cab after leaving the Braun home and said he and Mathieson had realized about $3,000 by pawning them and disposing of them to brokers. Some of the brokers may be taken on charges of receiving stolen property.

Mrs. Braun, wife of the president of the Braun Oleomargarine company, said she prized the jewelry especially because most of it had belonged to her mother.

DRIVER OF TAXI ADMITS THEFT OF M'FATRICH GEMS

Lost Last August by Doctor's Daughter.

Mrs. George P. Braun of 1221 Astor street has been searching for several months for a bag of jewels which mysteriously disappeared from a taxi-cab in which she was riding in her home last August from the Lake Shore depot.

The jewels were valued at $7,000 and had been given to her by her mother, Mrs. M. F. Braun.

James E. McPatrick, the mystery of the disappearance of the jewels was solved yesterday.

William George Nelson, 2139 North Sawyer avenue, a former taxicab chauffeur, now under arrest at the detective bureau, confessed he had found the gems in his cab and disposed of them. In taking Mrs. Braun's luggage out of the cab the chauffeur had neglected to hand her the jewel case.

Cab Company Keeps Up Hunt.

Martin Mathieson, 1623 North Monticello avenue, an acrobat, who helped Nelson dispose of the loot, also is under arrest. Some of the gems have been recovered.

Charles Gray, superintendent of the cab company, cooperated with the police, and Nelson, an old employee, was identified as the driver of the cab. He denied knowing anything about the jewels.

Neither the cab company officials nor the police gave up the search. Last Friday Detective Sergeant Leonard P. Burch found one of the missing pieces of jewelry, a $50 diamond studded roll platinum watch, in a pawn shop at 121 North Dearborn street.

The man gave his name as James Darrvas, and said he owned a poolroom at Seventy-fifth and Exchange avenue. The poolroom is in the name of another man. He is being held.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A paragraph under the picture of Washington in the photograph section of THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 20 said: "A few days later Col. Henry Lee... delivered a memorial address which contained the most famous eulogy in American history." First in war, first in peace, etc. The eulogy was written by Col. Lee, but delivered by John Marshall, then a congressman.

THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 19, in a story concerning the heroic death of Oliver J. Kendall at Cantigny during the world war, identified him as an old Illinois family "for which Kendall county was named." Kendall county was named in 1841 for Amos Kendall, postmaster general under President Jackson. He was a native of Massachusetts, and long a resident of Kentucky and Washington, D. C.

POLICEMAN HELPS HIS SON CAPTURE TAXI HOLDUP MAN

Father and son make a good team. Monday night a man charged the taxi of Stanley Cordray, son of Patrolman Charles Cordray of Des Plaines street station. After riding for a few minutes he pushed a gun into Cordray's back and made him give up $16.

Cordray put his car away and started looking for the robber. He met him at Hoyne avenue and Madison streets, struck up an acquaintance, and together they drove to a south side saloon. Then Cordray suggested they go to the north side, but he ordered the car driver to go to Des Plaines street station.

When they neared the station the robber became suspicious and jumped from the cab. Cordray ran into the station and got his father and two other policemen, who caught the robber at Madison and Clinton. A loaded revolver was found on him.

The man gave his name as James Darrvas, and said he owned a poolroom at Seventy-fifth and Exchange avenue. The poolroom is in the name of another man. He is being held.

$50 HE WON BY COURTESY HELPS HIM WIN BRIDE

The same sunny smile with which Howard G. Gerriah greeted THE TRIBUNE's reporter in State street on Dec. 4 last, and which won him the courtesy of $50 for that day, rippled across his countenance with excessive luminosity last night. There was a reason. It was a wedding.

Gerriah had just returned from his wedding. He was married in Buffalo, N. Y., Monday night to Miss Ethel S. Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Chapin Knapp of that city.

Indeed it was while he was on his way to purchase a wrist watch as Miss Knapp's Christmas present that he encountered the politeness reporter. He stood smilingly in a cold December drizzle while he politely and painstakingly gave the apparently stupid young stranger directions as to how to reach the art institute.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Today's Question.
Do you approve of County Superintendent Tobin's decision permitting the use of "It is me" and "He don't" in the county schools?

Where Asked.
Massasoit building, 225 North Michigan avenue.

The Answers.
J. H. Ensminger, 851 Barry avenue, instructor — Undoubtedly Tobin's ruling is good. Just as many slang phrases have been accepted for general use, so will "It is me" and "He don't" be eventually accepted as good form. This tendency is noticeable in new American fiction by the best authors.

Miss Margaret Ryan, 6216 Eberhart avenue, bookkeeper — No, I certainly do not approve. I think it is poor judgment. We are all seeking to go forward with the English language instead of backward. Precedents of this kind offer all sorts of openings for the general acceptance of slang expressions and ungrammatical utterance.

L. W. Eastman, 4643 Lake Park avenue, instructor — In the interest of Americanizing the English language, it should be legitimate to make terms which are a part of our language "as spoken" a formal part of the language "as written." The schools can help. A language that is too rigid becomes stilted and without rhythm.

Miss Eleanor De Canco, 1235 Addison street, home girl — I do not approve. Our effort should be to keep our language pure if it is to become the universal language. There can be no more beautiful or musical language than that contained in the English Bible. Of course, new words have to be added to any language, but the acceptance of ungrammatical terms breaks down the whole theory of syntax.

Rube Cook, 1563 East Sixtieth street, confectioner — I am not in favor of accepting slang and grammatical errors in our written speech. It is all right in quoting spoken language, but it is decidedly out of place in the body matter of supposedly good English. The fact that many persons speak ungrammatically does not make such speaking right.

Arrest 3 as Men Who Cart Away and Loot Safes

Three alleged members of the gang of burglars who have made a practice of carting off safes and looting them on the outskirts of the city, were rounded up yesterday by Detective Sergeants Cusack, Gratton, O'Neil, and Knowles.

TEXANS TO FIGHT DUEL; WEAPONS, CHECKBOOKS!

Sumners and Blanton
Frame New Code.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—(Special.)—A new dueling code has thus been framed by Texans in which the check book supplants the bowie knife or the pistol.

Representative Hutton W. Sumners of Texas has given notice he will post $1,000 as a forfeit if he can't show that Representative Thomas L. Blanton has made untrue assertions.

Representative Blanton announced he has REP. T. L. BLANTON gone out and borrowed the money to cover Sumners' forfeit and is willing to submit the matter to judges.

They are both candidates for the United States senate.

Sumners suggests that a special committee of the house, or a special committee of the American Legion of Texas, shall decide the question of veracity, and he will give the money to the American Legion.

Blanton says he is willing to leave it to a special committee of Sumners' fellow townsmen in Dallas.

At present the negotiations have been going on through formal letters, mailed to a special committee of Sumners' fellow townsmen in Dallas.

The trouble grows out of a charge made in the house by Sumners that Blanton was not speaking strictly according to facts when he wrote back to Texas newspapers that he alone of all the Texas representatives had stood out against an increase in salary for the representatives.

Blanton says he is speaking by the house record and has trotted out two representatives not from Texas as proof. But these two independent witnesses did not stand up for Blanton.

REEVES TO GIVE HIMSELF UP; ISN'T "LOSING SLEEP"

Melville Reeves, dubbed by the police "the skyscraper burglar," and sought in connection with the robbery of the International General Electric company's offices in New York City, was found by Texas authorities last night.

"The police aren't looking any more looking for me," said Reeves, cheerfully. "They know I'll be around. I called my lawyer up today and told him we would go over to the detective bureau tomorrow and we'll be there."

Reeves did not seem perturbed at having been named by Casper Staub, broker in foreign securities and stamps, as the man who sold him $47,500 worth of American Express company money orders for $4,500.

Staub identified a picture of Reeves as that of "Red," the "junk dealer," who, he said, induced him to buy the orders. Detective Sergeants James Kerr and Harry C. Galt were in his apartment in the Webster hotel. But he was not at home.

Staub was released last night on bail of $7,500. He is charged with receiving stolen property. He has been giving $1,150 worth of the stolen orders to Julius Schwill, millionaire malt manufacturer of Chicago, who is under bail of $7,500 on a charge of having attempted to pass stolen money orders.

WOMAN HUNTED HERE IN $1,600,000 TOLEDO ROBBERY

Address at which it was believed she would appear, postal authorities and the police were unsuccessful last night in their search for Wanda Urbatis, who is believed to be carrying a black bag containing part of the $1,600,000 loot of the Toledo mail robbery. She is being hunted throughout northern Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio.

The woman is known to have fled from Toledo on Monday with her brother, Joe Urbatis, and Joe Culbert, the two suspects arrested in Elkhart, Ind., en route to Chicago. She may have left the train before it reached Elkhart, but it is now believed she locked herself in a stateroom and continued to Chicago.

The bulk of the loot obtained by the five robbers, which an incomplete check places at $1,600,000, is now believed to have been shipped here. Aside from about $35,000 in currency, contained in registered mail sacks, most of it, postal officials say, consists of Liberty bonds, which the thieves will have trouble in disposing of.

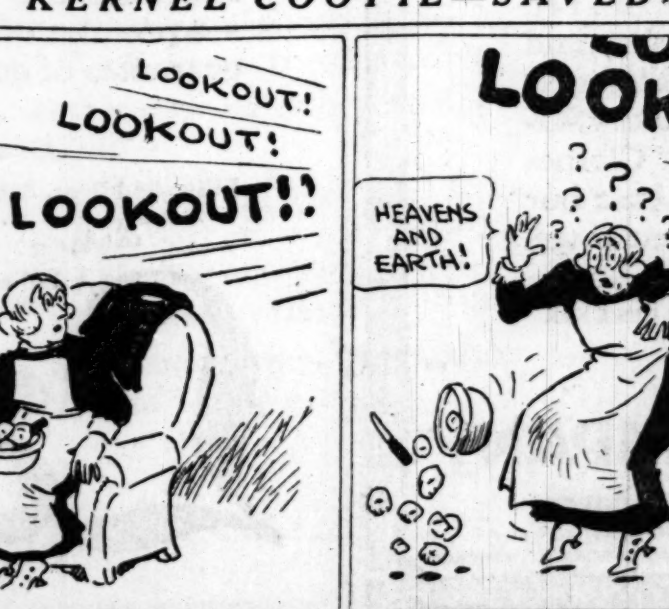

Uses Wrong Fire Escape to Visit Girl; Arrested

Dorsey R. Crowe, alderman elect of the Twenty-first ward, was entertaining friends last night in his home at 46 West Oak street when Lieut. John Martin and Detective Sergeant John Prendergast and Fred Kemper of East Chicago avenue station entered.

They had with them Samuel Demas, proprietor of a restaurant at 1110 North State street. They had surprised him on a fire escape in the rear of the Crowe home.

Demas, who carried $214, but no revolver, said he was on his way to pay a social visit to a young woman and had climbed the wrong fire escape. He is being held for investigation.

He was booked on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

LANDIS FIRES FIRST BIG GUN FROM BALL PIT

A SCRAPPER

JAMES E. YORK, one of the Cub pitching recruits, reported to President Veech and Manager Egan yesterday that he was ready to start to the coast with the advance guard tomorrow noon. York is a big left handed hurler who displayed great "stuff" at Chattanooga last season, and the experts who saw him believe he will hold a regular place in the big league. York gained distinction as one of the fighters in France, having fought with six major divisions on the front.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
Judge Kenneth M. Landis, as commissioner of baseball, made his first decision on a baseball case yesterday when he decided that Player Phil Todd be longed rightfully to the St. Louis American league club.

The player was claimed also by St. Louis Nationals and the case had gone to the national commission, but no decision had been made before the change in the baseball government took place. When Judge Landis took over the books of the commission he inherited many cases, and the first one he got busy on was the case of Todd.

The youngster never has played professional ball. He is a St. Louis schoolboy, and no one knows whether he can make good in the profession. However, he may develop into a star some day so it was important that his status be established just the same as if the case involved Babe Ruth or Cy Young Alexander.

History of the Case.
Todd signed a contract with the St. Louis Nationals back in June, 1917, when he was a 16 year old lad. He didn't play that summer and in the fall was released to the Sherman team of the Western association. The Sherman team simply carried the boy's name to protect him for the St. Louis Nationals, who would give him a trial when he became older.

Then the Western association broke up and the lad's name was transferred to the Houston club of the Texas league, Houston agreeing to protect the player for the Cardinals. It seems that some one neglected to file the name with Secretary Farrell of the national association and therefore the boy's father figured he was a free agent.

Decides Boy was Free Agent.
In the meantime the lad transferred his affection from the Cardinals to the Browns and last summer signed a contract with the latter. This brought the protest from the Cardinals. Judge Landis decided that the boy was a free agent when he signed last summer with the Browns and therefore the Browns have title to his services. Judge Landis has to decide a lot of cases in the next few weeks because there are other players who don't know where they belong and the same of all is to be established before the season opens.

HEYDLER RAPS WELTY

New York, Feb. 22.—Expressing the belief that "in time Judge Landis will devote all of his talent and energy exclusively to baseball," John A. Heydler, president of the National league, issued a statement tonight criticizing the man who seeks his impeachment. Judge Landis' decision to remain on the bench, he said, was that of the judge himself and "not by request of the baseball people."

"When a public man makes a statement that baseball is paying a big salary to Judge Landis in the nature of a bribe," the statement said, "that man is either wilfully misrepresenting the whole situation or he is woefully ignorant of the facts. Today there are only two cases before the courts in which baseball as a whole is concerned."

Won't Stop Good Work.

Judge Landis has had nothing to do with the inception or conduct of either, nor will he have anything to do with their future conduct or determination from a judicial standpoint. "As far as baseball is concerned, nothing that has been said in congress will shake our determination to go ahead on the right course we have shaped, and we are confident that no one can successfully assail the Americanism, inherent honesty, and fearlessness of the man baseball has chosen to perform a real public service."

CHANGES DRAWN IN SCHEDULE OF AMERICAN LEAGUE

Several changes in the recently published American league schedule were announced yesterday by President Johnson, who said they were necessary because the games in three eastern cities didn't balance. Washington, Philadelphia, and New York were involved. The changes at Washington were: Second series with Philadelphia reduced from five to four, eliminating July 1. Boston's dates of Sept. 10 and 11 changed to Sept. 9 and 10. Philadelphia scheduled there Sept. 11.

At Philadelphia, Detroit's last trip, two games, booked for Sept. 16 and 17, St. Louis taking the previous Detroit dates of Sept. 19, 20, 21, and 22. At New York, Philadelphia is booked for July 5 and open date. St. Louis' second trip made a four game series by including July 26. Sept. 8 with Boston eliminated. Boston booked in New York Sept. 11 instead of in Philadelphia. St. Louis finishes its New York games on Sept. 16 and 17, Detroit being booked for Sept. 18, 20, and 21. Sept. 22, originally booked with St. Louis, is eliminated.

PRESIDENT ELECT'S GOLF.

LET an acquaintance yesterday who was an eyewitness of a round of golf played by President-elect Harding while in Florida. His report enhances our former admiration for the next occupant of the White House.

In the match in question Mr. Harding shot a 105 over a course of at least average difficulty. Moreover, if you had such a fondness for your own game that you were restless without a mild wager on the relative merit of your shooting and that of Mr. Harding, well, you could be accommodated in a mild way as an American citizen, either on the result of the round or on any single hole.

What is more to the point, the next president cashed rather more than his share of the differences of opinion.

Just a reminder. Boxing bouts were held in nine large cities of the United States Monday night. Boxing shows are not legal in the second largest city in the country. Why?

"Forgiving" Debts.
While not posing as an authority on international economics, the gloved suggestions emanating from England and France that we "forgive" their war debts, while at the same time they are demanding that Germany pay reparations (in which this country demanded no share) "the last cent of its ability," strikes this department as a bit of a paradox.

Possibly this feeling is accentuated by the fact these loans were made possible by the sale of Liberty bonds which were admonished to buy "until it hurts," and which still hurt at their selling price of 90 or under.

What's His Name.
The Sox have signed a likely seek. A baby babe that, so to speak, who knocked the pill so hard last year he lost it forty times, I hear.

O, Kansas wif, as man to man, please let me know: is it Yar-yan? Or is Yar-yan how you say? Your family common-sense, pray? Or, Everett, when you're called upon do you respond to Yar-yan? Or does, mysteriously, Yar-yan? Your label time with Mary Ann?

I'd like to boost your game, my boy; I'll spread the news of it with boys. But I can't tout your name, Gee White. Till I get wise to what it is!

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Women may walk along the streets of Ottawa in tight. There is no law to prevent them. So ruled Inspector McLaughlin of the police morality squad after complaint that a woman "who was old enough to know better" had been seen on the main streets with a dashing short skirt.

Basketball Notes.
Wendell Phillips ought to have a great team with Quick, Hoop, and Dribble in the lineup.

In Bartlett's gym Chicago and Ohio State players held ball under basket and ball was taken out of the free throw line for jump. Joie Ray Shows Clean Pair of Heels to Boston A. A. Star

CAN'T STOP HIM

Boston, Mass., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Joie Ray of Illinois A. C., Chicago, for years champion of American foot racers at distances of around one mile, won his pre-eminence against the challenge of Harold Cutbill, the Boston A. A.'s "flying parson," and James J. Connolly of Georgetown university, in a thrilling race in the "Boston mile" at the American Legion annual games tonight.

These three tore over the track with first one, then the other, in the lead; and came near the finish with Cutbill in front, and apparently destined to repeat his recent victory over the Chicago star.

Ray Wins With a Rush.
But Ray, judging his finish exactly, came with a rush, passed the waning local runner, and carried Connolly, who was trying to dog his pace, along into second place, Cutbill fading to a close third.

The time, 4:32, has often been better. Jockeying for position, and constant battling for the lead and the pole, made the race thrilling.

Looms in Third Place.
Jake Driscoll of Boston college won the 600 yard cup against a fine field, in which Tom Campbell of Yale, Dave Caldwell, and Jack Zellars among the crew were forced to take his heels.

In the fifty yard low hurdles invitation Joe Sullivan defeated a classy field, with William Meanix and Frank Loomis Jr. of Chicago placing behind him. Sullivan made the fast time of 26.45.

SYBIL BAUER ADDS WORLD'S RECORD TO HER TANK LAURELS

CAN'T STOP HIM

Miss Sybil Bauer of Illinois A. C. beat the world's record time of 38 set by the world's fastest woman swimmer, Ethelinda Elsbrey, at Honolulu last year, when she turned out a mark of 35 3/5 in the 50 yard back stroke open event which featured last night's tank meet at Great Lakes Naval station.

Two Central A. U. senior championship events were decided.

Norman Ross of the I. A. C. winning the senior 220 yard free style by a five yard margin, while Miss Margaret Woodbridge of Detroit A. C. won the women's senior 440 yard race by half a lap of the 75 foot pool.

In the station officer's 220 yard championship race, Lieut. J. A. Walsh was the victor in 3:21 3/5. Lieut. E. Aiken finishing second, and Lieut. W. E. Sullivan third.

At New York—Ray Moore beat Henry Ginter (15); Johnny Smith knocked out Johnny Vial (11); Al Moran beat Harry Cordon (15); Joe Lane beat Joe Ridge (10); Bill Thompson beat Joe Fox (10); Louis Rogan and Soldier Hartfield draw (15); Edget Smith stopped George Lee (9). At Des Moines, Ia.—Frankie Mason beat Dandy Wilson (10); Roscoe Hall beat Joe Mandot (10).

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Joe Lynch, White of Albany gave Bantam weight Champion Joe Lynch a good argument for four of the eight rounds at the National A. A. tonight, then weakened in the fifth, and from that period on the champion was master of his man.

Lynch's advantage in height and reach proved the undoing of White, whose chief attack is in fighting. He got [TRIBUNE Photo.] to Lynch frequently in the early rounds and his body punishment worried the champion.

White, however, failed to follow up his advantage and Lynch, shifting his attack in the fifth round, jabbing a straight left to the face and hooking a short right to the body, swung the fifth all his way and White was in bad shape when the bell rang.

A terrific right hand swing closed Jabe's right eye in this round and he was also bleeding from the mouth from the many left jabs Joe landed.

Lynch had the better of the sixth but White delighted the big crowd by flaring up in the seventh and carrying the fighting to Lynch. White's blows were more saps than punches in this round and Lynch simply waded in regardless of the blows just to get close for his short right hand hooks.

The champion had all the better of the eighth and White was rather groggy when the bell ended the battle.

It was Lynch's first appearance here since he won the championship. He weighed 118 1/2 pounds and White tipped the scales at 115.

Jabez Groggy at End.

Milton H. Smith, Head of L. and N. Road, Is Dead

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 22.—Milton H. Smith, 85 years old, president of the Louisville and Nashville Railway company since 1891, died at his home here today after a heart attack.

Mr. Smith was the oldest active president of an important American railroad. He was the last of the old school of railway executives and was an uncompromising foe of organized labor. The open shop prevailed on the Louisville and Nashville until federal control, when the employees were organized under protection of the federal director general.

Mr. Smith began his railroad career as a telegrapher in charge of wire service in the civil war.
